Keynote Address

ARNE DUNCAN

U.S. Secretary of Education

The lack of adequate Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) student data prevents AAPI students from achieving educational equity. The bedrock of this effort—iCount—is data disaggregation: ensuring that we count every single student, and identify the diversity of the multi-faceted AAPI student population. Join a dynamic group of high-level federal officials, foundation partners, data specialists, policy experts and educational institutions from across the country to identify barriers to this problem and strategize around best data disaggregation practices, systems and solutions.

EVERY STUDENT COUNTS.
LET US ENSURE THAT EVERY STUDENT IS COUNTED.
