About the Summit

White House Initiative on Educational Excellence for Hispanics
Fulfilling America’s Future: Latinas in the U.S. Summit

As the largest and youngest minority group in the nation – Latinas are 1 in 5 females in the U.S. and will comprise nearly one-third of the country’s female population by 2060, elevating the importance of this event. The summit will continue the conversation started at the White House 2016 United State of Women event, specifically focusing on Latinas and the contributions they have made in education, the workforce, and their crucial role in the economy. The panel sessions, paralleling the White House Initiative on Educational Excellence for Hispanics’ Initiative) Fulfilling America’s Future: Latinas in the U.S. report, will highlight the condition of Hispanic girls and women in the country and their participation in areas such as: education, health, labor, housing and politics.

The summit will convene student leaders, entrepreneurs, policymakers, business, and philanthropy to further the asset-based narrative on Latinas and raise awareness on the investments needed in support of advancing the educational, workforce and leadership opportunities for Latinas.

Panel #1
Latinas in Education: Reaching Our Full Potential

Mission: Although Latinas are going to college in record numbers, they have the lowest percentage of graduate degrees compared to women of other non-Hispanic racial groups combined. The panelists will highlight promising practices and pathways to increase the number of Latinas obtaining a postgraduate degree.

Moderator: Dr. Lisette Nieves, Partner, Lingo Ventures, Commissioner for the President’s Advisory Commission on Educational Excellence for Hispanics

Panelists:
- Dr. Yolanda Flores Niemann, Professor of Psychology, University of North Texas
- Dr. Sobeyda Gomez-Chou, Ph.D., Cancer Biology, High School Math Teacher
- Gabriela Gomez, Deputy Director of Postsecondary Policy and Advocacy, Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation
- Dr. Cinthia B. Satornino, Assistant Professor of Marketing, Northeastern University

Questions for Discussion:
- What did you learn about why Latinas have the lowest number of graduate degrees compared to women in other groups?
- What are some of the struggles in your own community that create barriers for Latinas attaining a graduate degree?
- What promising practices described by the panelists inspired you most and why?
- Are these practices replicable in your own community? Why or why not?

Suggested Activities:
- If you are watching the Summit in real time, tweet questions during the panel using the hashtag #YoSoyLatina, so panelists can answer some of the questions live.
- Work with your group to brainstorm how some of these promising practices and pathways could be adapted in your community.
- Tweet something you learned from this panel. Be sure to use the social media resource page in this toolkit.
- Post a photo of those participating in the Summit.
Panel #2
Latinas in the Workforce: Leading in Non-Traditional Careers

Mission: Latinas are making some strides in the workforce, but remain seriously underrepresented in all professions. In 2014, only 4.3 percent of all female CEOs were Latina. Similarly, in 2013 Latinas held less than 1 percent of boardroom seats at Fortune 500 companies, and this has not improved since 2007. The panelists will highlight the role of Latinas in non-traditional careers, specifically the arts and STEM related jobs, and the impact they can have to redefining workforce opportunities.

Moderator: Veronica Melvin, President & CEO LA’s Promise, Commissioner for the President’s Advisory Commission on Educational Excellence for Hispanics

Panelists:
- Silvia Cardenas Olivas, Head Writer and Co-Producer, Disney’s Elena of Avalor
- Aimee Carrero, Actress, Voice of Princess Elena, Disney’s Elena of Avalor
- Diana Trujillo, NASA Mission Lead for Mars Curiosity Rover
- Vanessa Casillas, Journeyman Bricklayer, Board Member, Chicago Women in Trade

Questions for discussion:
- What did you learn about why Latinas remain underrepresented in certain professions?
- Why do you think there are so few Latina CEOs?
- What are non-traditional careers and how can Latinas make an impact?
- What types of non-traditional careers exist in your community? Are there barriers for Latinas who want these jobs? Why or why not?
- What can we do to promote the hiring of more Latinas both nationally and in your own community?

Suggested activities:
- If you are watching the Summit in real time, tweet questions during the panel using the hashtag #YoSoyLatina so panelists can answer some of the questions live.
- Work with your group to brainstorm how some of these promising practices and pathways could be adapted in your community.
- Tweet something you learned from this panel. Be sure to use the social media resource page in this toolkit.
- Highlight a Latina in a non-traditional career from your community. Post her story on social media (with permission).

Lunch Transition

Use this brief period for storytelling sessions, allowing participants in your watch party to become empowered by each other’s stories related to their experiences and Latina identity. Group leaders who identify powerful stories should be encouraged to upload short, 30-second to 1-minute videos on social media (with the approval of those being filmed). Remember to use #YoSoyLatina.
Panel #3
Latinas in the Economy: The Spirit of Entrepreneurship in America

Mission: Latinas own more than one million businesses in the U.S., and one in 10 of all women-owned firms in the United States are owned by a Latina. In 2014 alone, Latina businesses employed over 400,000 individuals and contributed over $71 billion to the economy. The panelists will share insights on the impact Latina entrepreneurs are having in the U.S. economy and share best practices from their personal journey as entrepreneurs and business women.

Moderator: Dr. Nancy E. Brune, Executive Director, Kenny Guinn Center for Policy Priorities, Commissioner for the President’s Advisory Commission on Educational Excellence for Hispanics

Panelists:
- Luisa Santos, Founder, Lulu’s Ice Cream
- Andrea Pedraza, Founder and Owner, CocoAndré Chocolatier
- Beatriz Acevedo, Founder and President, mitú
- Dr. Marie T. Mora, Associate Vice Provost for Faculty Diversity and Professor of Economics, The University of Texas Rio Grande Valley

Questions for discussion:
- What impact are Latina entrepreneurs having on the U.S. Economy and how are they doing it?
- What propelled the panelists into the business world?
- Why have the panelists been successful? How can their paths to success be replicated in your own community?
- Are there Latina-owned businesses in your own community? Why or why not?

Suggested activities:
- If you are watching the Summit in real time, tweet questions during the panel using the hashtag #YoSoyLatina so panelists can answer some of the questions live.
- Highlight a Latina entrepreneur from your community. Post her story on social media (with permission).
- Work with your group to brainstorm how some of these promising practices and pathways could be adapted in your community.
- Tweet something you learned from this panel.
Conversation with Latina Trailblazers

Mission: A conversation will be held to end the day’s summit highlighting Latina trailblazers who are redefining what it means to be Latina in this country and how we can work collectively to help develop and support the next generation of Latina leaders.

Moderator: Pamela Silva Conde, Emmy Award Winning Journalist, Anchor at Primer Impacto, Correspondent, Univision Network News

Participants:
- Catherine Pino, CEO & Founder, D&P Creative Strategies, LLC - Founder & Executive Producer, Freemind Beauty
- Ingrid Duran, CEO & Founder, D&P Creative Strategies, LLC - Founder & Executive Producer, Freemind Beauty
- Vannessa Vasquez, Emmy Nominated Actress, IGNITE National Spokesperson

Questions for discussion:
- Who is a Latina trailblazer in the U.S.?
- What do the next generation of Latina trailblazers need nationally and locally in your community for success?
- Who are the Latina trailblazers in your own community? How can you support them?
- What supports and challenges did the panelists face on their way to success?

Suggested activities:
- If you are watching the Summit in real time, tweet questions during the panel using the hashtag #YoSoyLatina so panelists can answer some of the questions live.
- Highlight a Latina trailblazer from your community. Post her story on social media (with permission).
- Brainstorm ways your community can support Latina trailblazers, both empowering new ones and supporting those already doing great work.
- Tweet something you learned from this panel.

Ending Remarks

Conclude the watch party by asking each participant to share what they have gained and how what they’ve learned can be used both in their own lives and to support Latinas in their community. Be sure to plan next steps by consulting the additional resources in this toolkit.

Feel free to share your thoughts by emailing WHIEEH@ed.gov.
