

2015 HBCU All-Star

Don't be eager to run with crowds, stay in your lane. Pass the knowledge on to your team, but carry the flame. Cuz it's yours and yours alone to brighten your way.

- Big KRIT

English Fields

Rust College

Junior; Political Science

english0432@hotmail.com

About Me!

Bio: English Fields was born and raised in Corinth, Ms. She is an activist, Southerners on New Ground (SONG) member, and the first Brown Boi from the state of Mississippi. She had the honor of being the leader of the first openly gay group participation in the NAACP, Alcorn county branch, sponsored parade the summer of 2013, as well as featured in Christian Hendricks' South of the Ohio; available now. She's been featured in Ebony, HBCU Digest's July issue of 2014, and Diverse Education's June 2015 article. She has also sat on the Trans-Justice Funding Project's panel 2014, where she along with 5 others helped distribute funds to 68 LGBTQ led organizations. Currently she is an honors student at Rust College, where her major is Political Science. For the academic year of 2015-2016, English will be serving as a Peer leader, where she influences first year students on the right path during their first year. Outside of her Rust College venture, English is a board member for the Highlander Center, and Camp Pride. She is continues to bring awareness to the LGBTQ community and what it's all about; especially at historically black colleges and universities (HBCUs).

What are your plans after graduation?

English plans to venture to law school where she plans to obtain her JD, and become a civil right's attorney. After being an attorney for 5 to 10 years, she has hopes at being a HBCU president.

