About Me!

Growing up in a small city in Georgia, I always knew there was more to the world, than what was around me. During my matriculation through high school, I developed a passion for educating kids and a passion for healthcare. I believed that if kids were healthy, they could become successful leaders. I was always told if you take care of your body, your body will take care of you. My passion for kids and healthcare led me to major in Biology at Savannah State University. While at Savannah State University, I have had the pleasure to work with younger kids and provide them with advice on healthy living. Even though I am very active on campus, I always find time to give back to the City of Savannah. I believe it is essential to always lend a helping hand to those who are in need.

What are your plans after graduation?

Upon graduation, I plan to attend Morehouse School of Medicine to become a Pediatric Cardiologist. I chose Pediatric Cardiologist because of my love for children and I think the anatomy and physiology of the heart is extremely interesting and important. One of my long term goals is to one day open my own children's hospital.
